

Meet Bernard.

The aroma of roasted garlic or freshly baked focaccia no longer sparks memories of his time abroad, where he discovered his passion for food. When asked his recipe for Raviolone Aperto, he stumbles over his words and becomes confused, realizing he can no longer recall the ingredients.

A small white rat might help him keep the memories he has and possibly regain the ones he has lost. Although he may not realize it, he depends on our animals. Compromised animals means compromised research. Their health impacts his.

Humane Care is our responsibility.
Bernard's life depends on it.