

bare necessity

An estimated 1.4 million women worldwide are diagnosed with invasive breast cancer annually. But one tiny pink mouse plays a vital role in the research and development of promising cancer therapies. However, compromised animals mean compromised research. It is our responsibility to treat every one of our animals humanely and with compassion, because we recognize that humane treatment today is critical to the human treatments of tomorrow.